

Age Group Teams- Frequently Asked Questions

Q: What are the World Triathlon Championship?

A: World Triathlon (TRI) is the international governing body for triathlon and related multi-sport disciplines (i.e. long distance, duathlon, aquathlon, aquabike and cross triathlon). Every year, TRI organizes World Championship events for elite and age group athletes. Race venues move around the world from year-to-year.. To participate in the World Triathlon Championships, each athlete must qualify through their national qualification process. It is the responsibility of the National Federations to register athletes for the World Championships.

Q: Are there races for age groupers other than the World Triathlon Championships?

A: World Triathlon aims to provide opportunities for competition and sport development from the grassroots–level to the elite-level at all their events. This is a unique aspect of triathlon, where you can see athletes of all ages and abilities competing at the same venue. The events are meant to be inspiring and motivating. As such, almost all TRI races have an open tier for age groupers that Canadian athletes can enter.

Check out <http://www.triathlon.org/> for events and the event-specific websites for more information.

Any other questions?

Please email agegroupteams@triathloncanada.com